Sous-fonds level description

Carole Itter sous-fonds. – 1972-2004. – 40 cm of textual material and graphic material. 4 audio cassettes.

Carole Itter was born in Vancouver, British Columbia on September 29, 1939. She is an artist, writer, filmmaker, and educator. She attended the Vancouver School of Art in 1961, subsequently renamed the Emily Carr University of Art and Design, where she later became an instructor. She traveled and studied throughout Europe during the 1960's before settling in Vancouver's Strathcona neighbourhood. She had one daughter--Lara Gilbert (1972-1995)--with Vancouver poet Gerry Gilbert (1936-2009), who she lived with for approximately six years. The couple's relationship was emotionally and sexually abusive. Once separated they initially shared custody of Gilbert, and when Gilbert was 12 years old she requested to live with Itter full-time.

In 1978 Itter began to divide her time between her home in Strathcona and a North Vancouver shack occupied by her partner Al Neil (1924-2017), Vancouver artist and musician. They shared this shack, known as the Blue Cabin, until 2015. It was preserved when the land was sold, and now exists as the Blue Cabin Floating Artist Residency in the waters of False Creek.

Itter has held several exhibitions in Vancouver. Notable work and exhibitions include art piece "Personal Baggage" (1972), Rattles (Western Front, 1984), and WACK! Art and the Feminist Revolution (Vancouver Art Gallery, 2008). She has won two awards for visual art, the 1989 VIVA (Vancouver Institute of Visual Arts) Award and the 2017 Audain Prize in Visual Art. With Daphne Marlatt, Itter was co-editor of Opening Doors in Vancouver's East End: Strathcona (Harbour Publishing: 1979), an oral history of Strathcona. Her own writing has appeared in anthologies and literary magazines, including periodics, Brick, and Room of One's Own.

In 1992 Lara Gilbert disclosed that she had been sexually abused by her father and paternal grandfather. Despite Itter's own ensuing mental health struggles, she supported Gilbert throughout her final years. They attended joint therapy and filed an unsuccessful suit against Vancouver General Hospital for a sexual assault of Gilbert by an orderly. Gilbert died by suicide on October 7, 1995. Itter attempted to press charges against St. Paul's Hospital and staff for medical malpractice, but the filing was dropped in 2001.

Itter processed her grief through research, therapy, and art. Her sculptural installation "The Pink Room: A Visual Requiem" (grunt gallery, 2000) dealt with the impact of grief and loss. It was acquired by the Vancouver Art Gallery in 2007. Itter edited and published excerpts of Lara Gilbert's journals in the book I Might Be Nothing (Trafford Publishing: 2004).

Sous-fonds consists of records kept by Carole Itter documenting the life and death of her daughter, Lara Gilbert, Gilbert's medical history, the publication of Gilbert's journals, legal trials submitted by Itter and Gilbert, and research on related topics chiefly from newspaper reporting and academic texts and journals. The sous-fonds has been arranged into five series: 1) cassette tapes, 2) I Might Be Nothing records, 3) legal proceedings, 4) medical records, and 5) clippings and research.

Series level descriptions

Cassette tapes. – [between 1972 and 1995]. – 4 cassette tapes.

This series consists of cassette tapes recording the voices of Lara Gilbert at various ages, Gerry Gilbert, and others. Three are undated.

I Might Be Nothing records. – 1987-2004. – 8 cm of textual records. 2 computer discs.

This series consists of manuscript drafts, digital book cover designs, published excerpts, and correspondence related to the publication of I Might Be Nothing.

Legal proceedings. – 1984-2003. – 15 cm of textual records.

This series documents criminal lawsuits filed by Lara Gilbert and Carole Itter. The first suit was filed in 1993 against Vancouver General Hospital and an orderly, who sexually assaulted Gilbert during a hospital admittance. The orderly claimed the assault was consensual and the jury found him not guilty. After Gilbert's death, Itter attempted to file suit against St. Paul's Hospital and several practitioners for medical malpractice, citing their willingness to grant Gilbert's leave request when she was still suicidal. The suit was dropped in 2001. Itter also began to document and collect evidence of Gerry Gilbert's abuse in order to apply for a peace bond against him. Records include handwritten notes, statements, legal documents, police records, and related correspondence.

Medical records. – 1992-1998. – 8 cm of textual records and graphic material. 1 computer disc.

This series consists of Lara Gilbert's medical records from Vancouver hospitals and practitioners during her many hospital admissions, primarily due to the deterioration of her mental health. She was seen by practitioners at UBC Student Health Services, Vancouver General Hospital, St. Paul's Hospital, and SAFER (Suicide Attempt Follow-up, Education & Research). Records include intake forms, progress reports, medication administration records, and EKG readings of Gilbert's final hours. Series also includes Carole Itter's therapy records after Gilbert's death.

Clippings and research. – 1983-1998. – 9 cm of textual records.

This series consists of newspaper clippings and research articles collected by Carole Itter, primarily from Vancouver and national newspapers. Subject matters include mental health, grief, child abuse, sexual abuse, pedophilia, incest, suicide, and medical malpractice. Series also includes manuscripts of Itter's published articles in the Vancouver Sun and related correspondence
