Extent

2,138 plans
ca. 10 watercolours
8 negatives

Biographical Sketch

Samuel Maclure was born in Sapperton, B.C., near New Westminster. He attended school in New Westminster and Victoria, developing an early interest in art. After graduating he worked for some years as a telegraph operator. In 1884 he spent a year studying art at the Spring Garden Institute in Philadelphia, taking classes in architecture and mechanical drawing as well as art. In the late 1880s, Maclure set up his own architectural practice, first in partnership with Charles H. Clow and later with Richard P. Sharp. Maclure and Clow built the Royal Columbian Hospital in New Westminster in 1889. With Sharp, Maclure designed houses for the Hill family of New Westminster. In 1892, Maclure and his family moved to Victoria. One of his first commissions was the Temple Building in Victoria. He maintained connections in Vancouver and built "Gabriola" for B. T. Rogers in Vancouver in 1901, enabling Maclure to maintain a second practice on the lower mainland. In 1901 Maclure and Francis Rattenbury were appointed architects for the new Government House, which was completed in 1903. Maclure received commissions from many prominent Victoria and B.C. businessmen and politicians. He maintained his interest in drawing and painting, producing many impressive drawings and watercolours of local West Coast landscapes. He and his friend Emily Carr both belonged to the Vancouver Island Arts and Crafts Society, one-quarter of whose members were Maclure clients.

Scope and Content

The fonds consists of architectural plans of Samuel Maclure for homes in Victoria, other B.C. locations, and out of province locations, as well as lists of people who commissioned homes by Maclure, including construction contracts. Fonds includes plans by English designer George P. Bankart; plans by H. D. Day; plans by other architects; and watercolours by Maclure of houses, proposed houses and alterations. The fonds also consists of 8 negatives made from copies of original drawings of Hatley Park and 3 photocopies of sketches of a bungalow designed for Mrs. Maltwood.

Biographical Sketch

Samuel Maclure was born in New Westminster on April 11, 1860, the son of John and Martha Maclure, who had arrived in British Columbia the previous year as part of the Columbia Detachment of the Royal Engineers. After elementary and high school education in the Fraser Valley and Victoria, Sam Maclure worked as a telegraph operator at a number of locations in British Columbia. In 1884 he went to Philadelphia to attend the Spring Garden Institute for a year. Originally intending to study to art, he quickly changed his emphasis to architecture. After returning to British Columbia in 1885, he advertised himself as an art and telegraphy teacher in Victoria. In 1889 he married Margaret Catherine Simpson and moved to New Westminster, where he opened an architectural practice in partnership with Charles Henry Clow, which lasted until 1892, when he removed to Victoria.

While Victoria was Maclure's residence and the site of the majority of his commissions, he opened an office in Vancouver with Cecil Croker Fox about 1900. This partnership was dissolved by Fox's departure for war service in 1914 and his death in action in 1916. The Vancouver office was not reopened until 1920, when Maclure assigned the task to Ross A. Lort, who had earlier worked in Maclure's Victoria office.

The years before the First World War were the busiest and most lucrative for Maclure. During the 1920s commissions for the type of large, high-quality houses of the pre-war years were more infrequent, and Maclure took on design jobs for more modest houses as well as alterations and additions. As evidenced by drawings in this series, Maclure worked almost until the time of his death on August 8, 1929.

Scope and Content

Plans for new buildings and renovations to existing structures principally in Greater Victoria during the period 1910 to 1929. Maclure's work constitutes over ninety per cent of this unit, and the overwhelming majority of his plans are for houses. Further accretions comprise a sample of the work of other architects, most notably Harry Daborn Day, who immigrated from England and designed houses in the Victoria area in the 1920s and '30s.

Most of Maclure's drawings for the period 1910 and before are presumed to have been lost in the Five Sisters Block fire (Government at Fort Street, Victoria) in that year. Most of the pre-1910 drawings in this series are blueprints. These plans include representative examples of all of the house styles employed by Maclure during his career except for the "stick-style" and Queen Anne types he designed among his earliest commissions.

The files are irregular assemblages of sketches, proposals, working drawings, contract drawings, consultant plans (e.g. heating, wiring, etc.). In the absence of project and plan numbering schemes or other indications of records management practices it is often difficult to assign a drawing or set of drawings to a particular phase of the design process.

Custodial History

This series of architectural plans was formed around the drawings of Samuel Maclure which were acquired by the History in Art Department from the Vancouver architectural practice Lort & Lort in 1968. The unit was transferred to the University Archives in 1980.

Arrangement

This series was evidently constituted by its custodians prior to transfer to the Archives. An individual file consists of all plans pertaining to an individual client at a particular site. File numbers were not applied to sheets; instead, consecutive numbers beginning with AP1 were written on each sheet. Nevertheless, the artificial file unit is quite clear and supported by various finding aids and other lists. Maclure did not use a project numbering system and employed sheet numbering only infrequently. It is possible that he kept his plans together in a manner similar to the one employed by the collectors of this unit, but there is no evidence to confirm this. Some of the drawings by architects other than Maclure which relate to structures he worked on usually make up separate files. These may have originally been kept with Maclure's drawings of the same structure, but, again, this is conjecture.

Some minor rearrangement of drawings within files took place prior to microfilming of the plans before the inventory project began. This filming precluded any further rearrangement while descriptive work was carried out. File 206 contains previously unidentified Maclure plans. In the course of preparing this inventory, many of these erratics were linked up with the files to which they belong. They have remained in situ but have been included in the appropriate file descriptions.

The Inventory

Rules for the description of architectural archives have not yet been developed in Canada. In their absence I have based the following file descriptions loosely on Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules 2nd edition (AACR2) and the inventories or guides prepared by the Canadian Architecture Collection of the Blackader-Lauterman Library of Architecture and Art at McGill University.

The most descriptive plan title found on the various sheets of a file has been selected for the title of that unit. If no representative title is present or all drawings are untitled, a descriptive title has been composed. The locations of the projects have been confirmed as far as time has permitted, even including site examinations. Where a location recorded on the plan cannot be confirmed on the ground or through reliable sources (as in cases where the design was not executed or the building has been demolished), the location as given on the drawing has been recorded (usually street and municipality names only). In these latter cases, the location in the file description does not imply the location of an actual structure. The descriptions of the structures are intended to give the inventory user an idea of the size and scope of the project, not to venture critical judgments or support arguments about the architects' work. File Descriptions

File Drawing nos. AP1-AP21, AP2009

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: F.E. Abbot

Title: Additions to residence at Long Harbour, B.C., for F.E. Abbot Esq.

Location: Long Harbour, Saltspring Island

Date: 1928

23 drawings: 12 pencil on paper, 11 pencil & ink on paper; 66 x 91 cm or smaller

Plans, elevations and details. A ground plan of the driveways may not be of the Abbot House site.

Additions and alterations to a one-storey house, probably of log construction. The existing structure comprises a living room, bedroom, dining room and breakfast room, although this is probably not the original layout. Alterations to this area include new windows, bathroom and bedroom closet. A two-storey addition of wood-frame construction is covered with unbarked wood slabs to harmonize with the original structure. Three porches, an entry hall with adjoining lavatory, a kitchen and pantry make up the ground floor addition, and three bedrooms, a bathroom, hall and linen room are on the second.

File Drawing nos. AP22-AP25

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: F.T. Adams

Title: House on corner of Hamley St. & Arnold Ave., Victoria, B.C., for F.T. Adams, Esq.

Location: 426 Arnold Avenue, Victoria

Date: 1913-1914

4 drawings: 2 pencil on paper, 2 ink on linen; 53 x 74 cm or smaller

Plans, elevations, section and details.

Two-storey house with part basement. The ground floor comprises a hall, living room, dining room, kitchen and pantry. Three bedrooms, an enclosed balcony and bathroom are on the second floor. Shingles, roughcast and half timbering are specified for the exterior finish.

The wood-frame construction of the garage is finished in half timbering and roughcast.

File Drawing no. AP26

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: William Agnew

Title: Addition of coach porch to house on Rockland Av. for Wm. Agnew Esq.

Location: "Schuhuum," 1322 Rockland Avenue, Victoria

Date: 1915

1 drawing: pencil on paper; 48 x 65 cm

Plan, elevations and details.

Porte cochère surmounted by a balustrade. Brick piers support a roof constructed of wooden joists and decking.

The house was originally designed for Hewitt Bostock by William Ridgway Wilson and built in 1894.

File Drawing no. AP27

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: William Agnew

Title: Tomb in Ross Bay Cemetery for Wm. Agnew Esq.

Location: Ross Bay Cemetery, Victoria

Date: 1917

1 drawing: ink on paper; 44 x 49 cm

Elevation and plan.

Family monument in carved and ashlar granite and sandstone. Signed by A.J. Mortimer for J. Mortimer & Son, monument makers.

File Drawing nos. AP28-AP34

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: Alister Forbes

Title: Sketch of proposed alterations & additions to "The Oakes", Oak Bay, B.C., for Alister-Forbes Esq.

Location: "The Oakes", 2275 Oak Bay Avenue, Oak Bay
Date: 1921

7 drawings: pencil on paper; 37 x 33 cm or smaller

Plans.

Alterations and additions to a two-storey house with basement which Maclure probably designed for John Ernest Smart and which was built about 1908. The first floor of the existing structure consists of a hall, library, dining room, pantry, breakfast room, kitchen, sun room, dining room and veranda. On the second floor are a hall, four bedrooms, dressing room, bathroom and water closet. A laundry and larder are in the basement. A coat room and connecting water closet are added off the hall just inside the porch. The veranda is enclosed and fitted with windows and doors, and a wall separating it from the sun room is erected. The drawing room is extended into the former veranda by removal of the wall separating them. An extension of the dining room appears in earlier plans but not in the final drawings. On the second floor the back bedroom receives a new fireplace and built-in shelves, and the door communicating with the dressing room is moved. A second bathroom is added between the two front bedrooms.

Three drawings inscribed: "This is one of the drawings referred to in the letter of agreement dated July 27th, 1921. [Signed] Eli Hume."

File Drawing nos. AP35-AP45

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: Alister Forbes

Title: House alterations and outbuildings at Mill Bay for Alister Forbes.

Location: Cobble Hill

Date: 1919-1927

11 drawings: 5 pencil on paper, 6 ink on paper; 46 x 90 cm or smaller

Plans and elevations.

Additions to a one-storey house with attic. On the ground floor the master bedroom is extended, and a dressing room, bedroom, bathroom and servant's room are added. The attic is enlarged by the addition of two nurseries and a bathroom, and an existing bedroom expands into a new dormer. Shingles finish the wood-frame construction.

Three outbuildings include a two-storey, two-bay garage with engine room (for a generator?) and two bedrooms; a barn with loft; and a combination office, woodshed and two-bay garage.

Most of the working drawings of house alterations are inscribed: "This is one of the plans referred to in our agreement dated 4th Sept. 1919." [Signed] W. Noble [and] Dorothea A. Forbes."

File Drawing nos. AP46-AP98, AP2021

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: D. James Angus

Title: Alterations and additions to house in Rockland Avenue for D.J. Angus Esq.

Location: "Patley," 1617 Rockland Avenue, Victoria
Date: 1917-1919

56 drawings: 33 pencil on paper, 21 ink on paper, 2 diazo; 63 x 93 cm or smaller

Plans (including original house), elevations and details.

Addition and alterations to a two-storey house with basement and attic which was originally built in 1905 for James A. Mitchell. A two-storey wing and a terrace are added to the house. On the ground floor the wing contains a new servant's room, larders, kitchen, pantry and children's dining room. A new porch and vestibule off the entrance hall are added, as well as a cloak room and lavatory off the vestibule. Four bedrooms, a bathroom and a balcony occupy the second floor of the addition. The attic of the new wing contains a bedroom and bathroom. Two bedrooms, a bathroom, storeroom and coal storage area are developed in the existing basement. On the ground floor the dining room is extended into the new wing, and a new wall separates the library from the drawing room. A nursery, bedroom and bathroom are added or modified on the second floor of the original house. New closets are added off the halls connecting the attic portions of the new wing and original house.

File Drawing nos. AP99-AP104

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: D. James Angus

Title: Alterations and additions to house at Shawnigan Lake for D.J. Angus Esq.

Location: "White Lodge," Shawnigan Lake

Date: 1925

5 drawings: 1 pencil on paper, 2 pencil & ink on paper, 1 ink on paper, 1 blueprint; 53 x 63 cm or smaller

Plans, elevations, section and details.

Addition and alterations to a one-storey house with attic. A blueprint of the ground floor of original house shows a veranda, screened dining room, two bedrooms, sleeping porch, bathroom, kitchen and larder. A new one-storey wing is added on a slightly higher level than the original. This addition contains two bedrooms, day nursery and lobby or hall. Large dormers are added to two bedrooms in the attic. On the ground floor the sleeping porch is converted to a bedroom or night nursery, and a new bathroom connecting with the latter is added. A cooler is built into a shed adjoining the kitchen, and the larder is extended outward and converted into the maid's dining room.

Includes "Agreement and general conditions of contract." (13 p.) signed by E.J. Hunter for Hunter & Halket, contractors, and D. James Angus, Mar. 25, 1925 (AP99).

Working drawings inscribed: "This is one of the drawings referred to in our agreement dated 30th March 1925. [Signed] Hunter & Halket [per] J. Hunter [and] D. James Angus."

File Drawing nos. AP105-AP118

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: R. Angus

Title: Additions and alterations to residence of R. Angus Esq., Bowker Ave., Oak Bay, B.C.

Location: 2650 Bowker Avenue, Oak Bay

Date: 1928

14 drawings: 12 pencil on paper, 2 ink on paper; 57 x 91 cm or smaller

Plans, elevations, section and details.

Additions to a two-storey house with basement. The front of the house is extended forward under a new front-facing gable, enlarging the den, hall and living room on the ground floor and three bedrooms and a large closet on the second. A new covered porch projects from this addition, and a coat closet is added next to the front entrance. A bay window is added to the side of the living room. Another two-storey addition to the rear of the house adds a kitchen, pantry and screen porch on the ground floor and a bedroom on the second floor. The kitchen in the original house becomes a children's room.

File Drawing nos. AP119-AP155

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: Mrs. C.F. Armstrong

Title: House additions and alterations and outbuildings at 1630 York Place, Oak Bay, B.C., for Mrs. C.F. Armstrong.

Location: 1630 York Place, Oak Bay

Date: 1923-1928

34 drawings: 17 pencil on paper, 1 pencil & ink on paper, 11 ink on paper, 4 ink on linen, 1 blueprint; 55 x 84 cm or smaller

Drawings for different projects ranging from proposal sketches to working drawings and a consultant's plan. Plans, elevations and details are represented in most projects.

Additions to a two-storey house with basement and various new outbuildings on the grounds. A wing adds a trunk room in the basement, and a laundry on the ground floor. The roof of the latter forms a balcony off the boys' sleeping room on the second floor. Plans specify a rubble stone basement wall and wood-frame walls finished with roughcast. Another addition extends the maid's bedroom and adds a bathroom and closet over the porte cochère. Another bathroom is later added above this extension connecting with the boys' room. Two further second-floor bedrooms are added next to the boys' room (possibly above the first addition described above). A large terrace with rubble stone walls is added across the breadth of the east side of the house, and quarter-turn stairs descend from it. The terrace turns the northeast corner of the house and is surmounted by a two-storey structure next to the laundry addition. A new second-floor bedroom with lavatory and closet is built above a loggia on the ground floor or terrace level. Two sketch plans show wall, window and fireplace treatment of a living room extension. Outbuildings include five different proposals for a garden tea house, two designs for a change house, two proposals for garage additions and a large cruciform greenhouse with attached aviary.

This house was originally designed for Judge Peter Secord Lampman in 1905 by F.M. Rattenbury and built in 1907-08. P.L. James and Hubert Savage designed further additions in 1930.

Includes four sets of specifications (AP119-AP122). Contractors' signatures on various plans include Leggett & Girardeau (per. H. Leggett) and Hunter & Halket (per E.J. Hunter).

File Drawing nos. AP160-AP161

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: Bank of Montreal

Title: Manager's residence, Armstrong, B.C., for Bank of Montreal

Location: Armstrong

Date: 1911-1912

12 drawings: 2 pencil on paper, 10 ink on linen; 60 x 68 cm or smaller

Plans, elevations, sections and details.

Two-storey house with attic and part basement. The basement contains a servant's room, laundry room and furnace room. The ground floor comprises a vestibule and adjoining lavatory, hall, drawing room, study, dining room, kitchen, pantry, larder and veranda. On the second floor are three bedrooms, sewing room and two bathrooms. The attic contains a boys' play room, box room and servant's room. Plans specify a stone foundation and wood-frame construction finished in roughcast with half timbering on the attic-level gable ends and dormer.

Two of the detail plans were produced by Maclure & Fox, Vancouver. Working drawings are inscribed: "This is one of the drawings referred to in our contract dated Feb 15th 1912." Signed by C. Avery (?), Superintendent of B.C. Branches, Bank of Montreal, and Perry Chapman.

File Drawing nos. AP188-AP192

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: Bank of Montreal

Title: Alterations for Bank of Montreal, Government Street at Bastion Square, Victoria, B.C.

Location: 1200 Government Street, Victoria

Date: [192-?]

5 drawings: 4 pencil on paper, 1 pencil & ink on paper; 55 x 52 cm or smaller

Preliminary plans most of which lack an indication of the proposed changes. Plans of the existing ground floor of the bank at the corner of Government and Bastion Streets (now Bastion Square) designed by F.M. Rattenbury in 1896 (see file 229). The only evident alteration is reinforcement of the vault, otherwise the extent of changes is unclear.

Architect: Samuel Maclure
Client: John Bannerman
Title: Garage for John Bannerman Esq.
Location: Unknown
Date: July 1911

1 drawing: blueprint; 39 x 75 cm

Plans, elevations and a section.
Conversion of a garage to two-storey dwelling. A living room (disguised as a garage bay), dining room and veranda make up the ground floor of this small structure. The second floor comprises two bedrooms. Wood-frame construction is finished with vertically plane unbarked slabs of wood. Tree trunks serve as columns for the veranda.

File Drawing nos. AP194-AP208, AP2048
Architect: Samuel Maclure
Client: Sir Frank Barnard
Title: Additions and alterations to "Clovelly," Victoria West, B.C.
Location: "Clovelly," 730 Sea Terrace, Victoria
Date: 1912-1928

15 drawings: 12 pencil on paper, 3 ink on paper; 71 x 87 cm or smaller

This file includes sketches, presentation drawings, working drawings and a property plan. Drawings show plans, elevations and detail.

Additions and alterations to house (at least two floors) and plans for a garden house. On the ground floor a sun room, terrace, vestibule, porch and porte cochère are added. The drawing room is extended by removing the wall separating it from the conservatory. The ceiling of the conservatory is given the same plaster cornice and rib treatment as the drawing room. Plans specify flagstone paving on the terrace and tile paving on the porch and vestibule. Two proposals for a garden house or pavilion are present, and the evidently successful version is for a rustic one-storey structure of wood-frame construction covered with vertical unbarked fir slabs.

Includes "Agreement and general conditions of contract." (13 p.) signed by Ed Williams for Williams, Trerise & Williams, contractors, and F.S. Barnard (AP208).

Architect: Samuel Maclure
Client: H.E. Beasley
Title: Residence for H.E. Beasley Esq., St. Charles St., Victoria, B.C.

Location: 943 St. Charles Street, Victoria

Date: 1912

16 drawings: ink on linen; 39 x 48 cm or smaller

Plans, elevations and details.

Two-storey house with attic and basement. The basement contains a servant's room, laundry room and a space reserved for a future billiard room. The ground floor comprises a veranda, vestibule, hall, living room, drawing room, dining room, kitchen, pantry, larder and side-door vestibule with adjoining lavatory (wash basin only). On the second floor are planned a hall, five bedrooms and bathroom. A preliminary drawing set shows an attic containing two bedrooms and a storeroom, but a comparable drawing is not part of the working set. The basement walls appear to be of concrete below ground and wood framing above, but some elevations seem to specify a stone basement. The wood-frame construction of the rest of the structure is finished with roughcast on the first floor and half timbering on the second.

Working drawings are signed by John Hepburn and H.E. Beasley.

Title: Alterations & additions to bungalow on St. James St., Oak Bay, for Mrs. Maurice Carmichael.

Location: 1197 Transit Road (formerly St. James Street), Oak Bay

Date: 1917-1923

11 drawings: 9 pencil on paper, 1 ink on paper, 1 blueprint; 37 x 65 cm or smaller

Working drawings consist of plans, elevations, furniture and specifications. A blueprint of the site plan, entitled "Plan of Ardath, Oak Bay Dist.," shows the location of the original garage and what appears to be the outline of a pre-existing house on the site. Contours of the land, a tennis court and the sewer connection are also indicated.

Additions and alterations in two stages to expand a garage into a one-storey two-bedroom bungalow. The first alteration in 1917 (AP347, titled "Alterations to garage for H. Carmichael Esq." and inscribed "Maurice Carmichael" on the verso) converts one bay of the garage (cf. AP346) into a bedroom, the second bay into a living room and the "man's room" into a kitchen. A bathroom and vestibule are added on. The house is expanded in 1923 by the addition of a second bedroom, sunroom, new bathroom and furnace room. The original bathroom is converted into closet space.

The plan for the 1917 alterations (AP347) is inscribed: "This is the plan agreed to in our contract dated 20th Aug 1917. [Signed] Walter Noble [and] Josephine Carmichael."

Title: Additions & alterations to "Burleith" for Hon. James Dunsmuir.

Location: "Burleith," 743 Craigflower Road, Victoria

Date: 1907-1910

13 drawings: 7 blueprints, 6 lithographs; 71 x 73 cm or smaller

Plans and elevations.

Two different proposals for additions and alterations to three-storey house with basement. The first proposal (drawings AP457-AP465), dated October 1907, calls for a new veranda and extensions to the front, right side and rear. The architect specifies stone veneer over all wall surfaces, encasing the original wood-frame structure. New interior partitioning results in the following arrangement: The first floor comprises a hall, drawing room, music room, living room, dining room, cloak room and adjoining water closet, smoking room, billiard room, safe, kitchen, pantry, larder, servants' hall, two servants' rooms and bathroom. The second floor consists of ten bedrooms, four bathrooms, boudoir, dressing room, linen room and safe. The third floor includes seven bedrooms, two bathrooms, sewing room, trunk room and balcony.

The second proposal (plans AP466-AP469), dated July 1910, prescribes the addition of a two-storey wing and a three-storey wing. The finish of the additions is to match that of the old building as far as possible. This may represent the plan to turn Burleith into a luxury hotel. The first floor consists of a vestibule, hall, drawing room, music room, den, billiard room, dining room, kitchen, pantry, larder, servant's room, fifteen bedrooms, three bathrooms and three water closets. The second floor contains 26 bedrooms, dressing room, seven bathrooms and a writing room. The third floor comprises twelve bedrooms and three bathrooms.

Two sets of drawings showing plans and elevations for alterations to a two-storey house with basement which Maclure designed for H.A. Munn about 1900 (see file 205). The first set (AP526-AP528) is dated Nov. 1911. The second set (AP529-AP531.1), dated Jan. 1912, appears to show some of the work executed from the earlier plans as well as what appear to be further alterations.

In the first set of drawings the altered basement contains two servants' rooms, a sewing room, spare room and corridor. The second set shows only one servant's room, sewing room, spare room and a coal bin and chute. The first floor comprises a vestibule, hall, den, drawing room, kitchen, pantry, dining room, laundry and watercloset. A new stairway descends from the terrace which adjoins the house on this level. The second floor includes four bedrooms, a bathroom and two balconies, including a new sleeping balcony, which appears to be absent in the second set of drawings.

The first set of drawings is signed "A.J. Thompson [and] S.S. Finlayson."

Alterations to two-storey house with basement and attic which Maclure originally designed for Simon Leiser in 1910 (see file 111). The water closet in the basement is enlarged and a bathtub is added. On the first floor the den is converted into a bedroom. The opening between the hall and the drawing room is narrowed and a door fitted. The drawing room is then redesignated a sitting room. The veranda off these two rooms is extended, enclosed and altered to a bedroom and bathroom. One of the bedrooms on the second floor is converted into a bathroom. The sleeping balcony, which is above the former veranda and which had been converted into two dressing rooms by a former owner, is turned into a single sun room. A later drawing (AP575, dated 1927) shows a new sun room on the ground floor (location uncertain).

7 drawings: 1 pencil on paper, 4 ink on linen, 2 blueprints; 42 x 71 cm or smaller

Working drawings of the original building (AP580-AP581) and the later alteration (AP582-AP586) consist of plans and elevations. The blueprints of the original building show some alterations sketched in.

Two-storey house with basement. In the original house design (1908) the basement includes a servant's room, coal and wood bin and a laundry room. The ground floor is comprised of a hall with adjoining lavatory, drawing room, library, dining room, kitchen, pantry, larder and two verandas. The second floor contains three bedrooms, a dressing room, two bathrooms and a balcony. The wood-frame construction is finished in half timbering on the second floor. The ground-floor exterior treatment is not specified in this drawing set, but the plans of the later alterations (see below) call for shingles here. The basement is stone. Leaded glass is specified for many second floor windows.

The alterations of 1913 extend the back of the house and call for the development of the attic as a usable living space. On the ground floor the library is considerably enlarged, and a coat room, lavatory and servant's room are installed. The southeast veranda is extended forward bringing it flush with its mate on the other side of the house, and both are enclosed in glass all around. A partially glassed-in archway between the two verandas leads in to the stairway to the porch. Second-floor alterations include conversion of the northwest bedroom to a work room and the addition of a sleeping balcony, bathroom, alcove and bedroom. The rear stairway is extended to the attic, which is opened by the addition of three dormers. A drying room and play room occupy this space. The original exterior treatment of the house is maintained on the additions and alterations.

Client: George S. Gibson

Title: Designs for carved work.

Location: Unknown

Date: [192-?]

3 drawings: pencil on paper; 39 x 56 cm or smaller

Full-scale drawings of decorations to be carved.

George S. Gibson of Shawnigan Lake was a well-known wood carver and may have been the artisan rather than the client for this project. It is conceivable that Gibson drew the two plans AP588-AP589 as they are not on the same paper as AP587, are not lettered by Maclure and appear to have been folded as for sending through the post.

6 drawings: 5 pencil & ink on paper, 1 pencil on paper; 54 x 85 cm or smaller

The drawings include plans of the existing house, preliminary designs (with pencilled changes) and contract drawings (AP943, AP946). Plans, elevations and detail. Additions and alterations to two-storey house with basement and attic which Maclure designed in 1910 for E.M. Tracksell (see file 180). In the basement the chauffeur's room is enlarged, and a bathroom connected to it is installed. Another servant's room and a water closet are framed in. The first floor is extended on one side enlarging the dining room, living room and library. A large terrace is added on two sides of the house. Other minor alterations to the hall and kitchen are also noted on the first floor. The space over the first-floor extension is made into two balconies and a glassed-in sleeping porch on the floor above. A new bathroom off the maid's room, a hall linen closet and a clothes closet in one bedroom complete the second-floor alterations. A new two car garage is also planned. Drawing AP946 is signed: "Williams, Trerise & Williams per Ed Williams; Dominion Plumbing [per] William Bruce; Stapledon & Carter Ltd per E.J. Carter; McDowell & Mann per CJ McDowell as to Hart Oil Burner."

Plans, elevations, sections, details and heating. A detailed item list is available. Plans for a new clubhouse call for a one-storey structure with attic and basement. The ground floor comprises a lounge room, dining room, ladies' sitting room, smoking room, office, bar, kitchen, pantry, larder, storeroom, maid's room, housekeeper's sitting room, men's and ladies' locker rooms, lavatories and drying rooms. A large veranda extends across one side of the building on this level, and a pergola across part of another side. The attic consists of eleven bedrooms, a box room and three bathrooms. Part of this attic plan may have been cancelled.

The file contains a sketch plan of proposed additions by the architect R.P.S. Twizell (AP952, dated Dec. 1911). Maclure and Fox prepared four plans (AP948-AP951) for a proposed addition which includes a dressing room, smoking room, shop and toilets. It is not clear whether these latter plans preceded their plans for a new clubhouse.

The heating plans (AP958-AP960) were prepared by Francis H. Sprague, consulting engineer.

Proposal, working and contract drawings showing plans, elevations and details. A detailed item list is available.

Drawings of two separate addition and alteration projects and of a stone and wrought iron wall. The elevations of an addition in 1910 do not make the nature of the changes clear. The plans of a two-storey addition drawn in 1925, however, show a new laundry room, two bedrooms and water closet on the ground floor and three bedrooms and a bathroom on the second. On the upper floor of the adjacent part of the existing house a partition between two rooms is removed to form a sitting room.

The contract drawings for this latter addition are inscribed: "This is one of the plans referred to in our agreement dated 6th Feb. 1926. [Signed] Hunter & Halket per E J Hunter [and] Stephen Jones."

This file contains proposals, contract drawings and extensive detail drawings. The proposal and contract drawings show plans and elevations. A detailed item list is available.

The proposal dated Dec. 1924 (AP1290-AP1291) shows a two-storey house. The ground floor comprises a porch, vestibule and adjoining cloak room and lavatory, hall, drawing room, smoking room, lavatory, dining room, kitchen, pantry, bedroom and bathroom. A terrace extends two-thirds of the way across the back of the house. The second floor consists of the upper hall, eight bedrooms, four bathrooms and a linen room.

The alterations and additions to the Copeland farm house produce a two-storey house with basement. The lower floor consists of a smoking room or library, dining room, kitchen, pantry, storeroom, two porches off the kitchen, cook's room, three bedrooms, two bathrooms and two verandas. The upper floor comprises a hall, drawing room, four bedrooms, two bathrooms, three balconies and a veranda. A porch adjoins the hall and veranda and is connected to the porte cochère. The wooden framing is covered with unbarked wood slabs.

The file also contains sketches or drawings for a summer house, gardner's cottage, dance pavilion, garages, garden paths and a terrace.

The contract drawings (AP1294, AP1296-AP1298, AP1305, AP1315 and AP1318) refer to contracts dated May 1, May 8 and Oct. 29, 1925. All are signed: "Hunter & Halket, per E.J. Hunter [and] W.C. Nichol."

Drawing sets for three different houses. All contain plans, elevations and various sections and details. One set (AP1331-AP1341) comprises the contract drawings. A detailed item list is available.

All three sets are for a two-storey house with basement and attic.

First set, dated December 1920: The basement contains two bedrooms, a bathroom, two fuel bins, boiler room, two storerooms, laundry room, drying room, cellar (probably for wine), school room and washroom. The ground floor consists of a hall with adjoining coat room and lavatory, drawing room, dining room, smoking room, kitchen, storeroom, pantry, larder and dairy. The second floor contains the upper hall, six bedrooms, a dressing room, two nurseries, shower, two bathrooms, two water closets, a washroom and two balconies. The attic comprises two bedrooms, a play room and two undesignated rooms. One elevation shows a Renaissance revival exterior with stone facing on the ground floor and half timbering on the second. The other elevations show a more severe classical exterior with roughcast finishing.

Second set, dated January 1921: This is the contract set and is amended by small signed drawings. The basement includes a servant's room, bathroom, water closet, boiler room, two fuel bins, storeroom, hall, laundry room, drying room, cellar, boys' room and work room. The ground floor comprises a vestibule with adjoining coat room and lavatory, hall, drawing room, library, school room, dining room, kitchen, pantry, storeroom, larder and dairy. A large veranda extends across the south side of the house on this level. The second floor consists of the upper hall, five bedrooms, dressing room, two nurseries, two bathrooms, shower room, washroom and three balconies. The attic includes a hall, trunk room and three spare rooms. The hollow tile exterior walls are finished in roughcast.

Third set, dated March-April 1921: The basement contains a hall, servant's room, bathroom, boiler room, two fuel bins, cellar, storeroom, boys' room, laundry room and drying room. The ground floor contains a hall with adjoining coat room and lavatory, library, drawing room, dining room, kitchen, pantry, storeroom, larder and dairy. A flagstone terrace joins the south side of the house on this level. The second floor comprises the upper hall, four bedrooms, dressing room, two bathrooms, two water closets and two balconies. The attic consists of two bedrooms, a bathroom, play room and school room. Roughcast covers the wood-frame construction.

The contract drawings are stamped and inscribed: "This is one of the drawings referred to in our contract dated April 28, 1921. [Signed] Co-operative Co Lt. [per] W M Askew [and] F.B. Noble."

Title: House at Elk Lake, Saanich, for H.C. Oldfield Esq.

Location: "Norfolk Lodge," 5789 Brookhill Road, Saanich

Date: 1911-1914

12 drawings: 2 pencil on paper, 9 ink on linen, 1 blueprint; 41 x 74 cm or smaller

The blueprint (AP1369, undated) shows floorplans of the original house, which is altered according to the next drawing (AP1370, dated Apr. 1911). The latter shows plans, elevations and details. These are followed by a sketches and drawings (AP1371-AP1379, AP2148, dated Oct. 1913 Jan. 1914) for what are evidently three proposals for houses. The last consist of plans, elevations and details.

The original house, as altered, has a basement and two floors. The ground floor comprises a hall, living room, conservatory, dining room, kitchen, pantry, larder and lavatory. The second floor consists of five bedrooms, a bathroom and two balconies. The first floor is finished in shiplap and the second in shiplap and half timbering.

The second of the three later proposals (AP1372-AP1372), for which only elevations remain, is a one-storey structure with a basement. The walls are faced in stone and half timbering, and leaded glass windows are called for throughout The third proposal is for a one-storey house with a basement and probably an attic. The basement includes a water closet and laundry area. The ground floor comprises a hall, living room, veranda, dining room, kitchen, pantry, two bedrooms and bathroom. It is finished in roughcast with leaded glass windows liberally specified.

Drawings for later additions and alterations were prepared for J.H. Oldfield (see file 139).

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Client: Mrs. J.L. Raymur

Title: Proposed alterations & additions to house on Stanley Ave., Victoria, B.C., for Mrs. J.L. Raymur.

Location: Stanley Avenue, Victoria

Date: 1921

15 drawings: pencil on paper; 40 x 66 cm or smaller

This file contains three different sets of proposal drawings. The first set consists of plans only; the second shows plans, elevation and section; and the third contains plans, elevations and details of kitchen fitments. There is also a drawing showing the first and second floor plans of the original house.

An Elizabeth Raymur lived at 1315 Stanley Avenue in the 1920s, but this address does not now exist. No building similar in age or design to anything in this set exists at or near 1315 Stanley Avenue.

The existing house shown in drawing AP1493 (Aug. 1921) has two storeys, but it is not clear whether there is a basement. The first floor includes a porch, hall, drawing room (mislabelled dining room), a dining room, kitchen, pantry, woodshed and water closet. The second floor has a hall, four bedrooms, bathroom and water closet.

The first two proposals appear to transform the house into a boarding house. The first of these schemes (AP1479-AP1484) produces the following arrangement:

Basement: two fuel bins, servant's room, water closet, furnace room, laundry room and storeroom.

Ground floor: Porch, hall, ingle, drawing room, living room, storeroom, dining room, kitchen, pantry, larder, bedroom and bathroom. A second plan rearranges the dining room, kitchen, pantry, bedroom and bathroom and eliminates the larder.

Second floor: Nine bedrooms and two bathrooms.

Attic: Four bedrooms and a bathroom, all in the new (rear) part of the house. A second scheme also proposes four bedrooms and a bathroom, but they are strung out along a corridor from the front of the old house to the back of the new. This necessitates dormers in the attic of the old house.

The second proposal (AP1485-AP1489) lays out the house thus:

Basement: servant's room, lavatory, coal bin, furnace room, laundry room, kitchen, store, cooler and pantry. There is a lift from the kitchen to the dining room above.

Ground floor: Porch, hall, ingle, drawing room, living room, coat room, dining room, two bedrooms, dressing room and bathroom.

Second floor: Same as in first proposal with a slight change to one of the bathrooms.

Attic: Substantially the same as the first plan in the first proposal.

The third proposal (AP1490-AP1492) calls for a substantially smaller addition and converts the house instead into a two-storey duplex with the following arrangement:

Basement: Furnace room, coal bin and laundry area.

Ground floor: Porch, hall, ingle, living room, dining room, kitchen, bedroom, dressing room and bathroom.

Second floor: Hall, living room, dining room, kitchen, bedroom, bathroom and water closet.

Attic: Bedroom (in original house).

Title: Alterations to residence of Comte Jean de Suzannet, Dennison [sic] Road, Victoria, B.C.

Location: "Kingsmont," 305 Denison Road, Oak Bay

Date: 1925-1928

24 drawings: 14 pencil on paper, 10 pencil & ink on paper; 49 x 66 cm or smaller

Plans, elevations and details. A detailed item list is available.

This house was originally designed by D.C. Frame for George Ogilvie Leask and erected in 1910-11. Maclure prepared plans for major additions and alterations to the house.

The house as altered by the first project consists of a basement and two floors. The basement includes a laundry, water closet and storeroom. The ground floor comprises a vestibule and adjoining cloak room and lavatory, stair hall, hall, drawing room, sun room, dining room, kitchen, butler's pantry and two bedrooms. A large veranda extends across the front of the house. The second floor contains five bedrooms, linen room, two bathrooms and a water closet.

The alteration plans proposed in 1928 call for the construction of a flower room, play room and storeroom in the basement. The sun room on the ground floor is reconstructed and transformed into a drawing room, and the bedroom adjacent to it is converted into a den. The enlarged space on the second floor above the new drawing room becomes two bedrooms, and the two bathrooms and linen room are relocated.

The contract drawings for the first alteration (AP1628-AP1635) are stamped and inscribed: "This one of the drawings referred to in our agreement dated Nov. 12th 1925. [Signed] Horace Leggett, Adrien Emile Girardeau [and] J de Suzannet."

This file contains contract drawings and tracings showing plans, elevations, sections and details.

New two-storey house (1912) with later additions and alterations (1919). Finished rooms in the basement include a garage, laundry room, servant's room and water closet. The ground floor comprises a vestibule with adjoining lavatory, hall, den, dining room, kitchen, pantry and larder. A large veranda extends across the entire front (east) side and part of the way around the north and south sides. The second floor consists of the upper hall, four bedrooms, dressing room, two bathrooms and a balcony. The wood-frame construction is finished in shingles and half timbering. Leaded glass windows are specified throughout.

Later drawings call for the addition of a new dining room on the north side of the house. The former dining room is converted to a smoking room, and the den becomes a breakfast room. The front veranda is enclosed and converted to two sun rooms. The part of veranda on the south side is enclosed, and the entrance and lavatory are altered.

Drawings AP1691-AP1697 are stamped and inscribed: "This is one of the drawings referred to in our contract dated Victoria, B.C., Aug. 19th 1912. [Signed] Nelson Benneck & Sons [and] E.D. Todd."

11 drawings: 8 ink on linen, 3 blueprints; 36 x 54 cm or smaller

This file contains drawings for three different houses. William Ridgway Wilson prepared plans and an elevation for alterations to a house (AP1796-AP1797, dated June 6, 1911). Maclure drew plans for basement alterations of what appears to be a different house in Nov. 1912 (AP1798 AP1799) and in Oct. 1913 prepared an as-found drawing of the ground floor of this second house (AP1800). He also prepared a set showing a plan, elevations and details for a third house (AP1801-AP1806).

The house altered by Ridgway Wilson consists of a basement, ground floor and attic. The ground floor comprises a hall, drawing room, dining room, kitchen, servery, larder (called a pantry on the plan) two bedrooms, morning room, bathroom and water closet. The attic contains three bedrooms.

The as-found drawing shows the ground floor containing a hall, living room, conservatory, library, dining room, kitchen, pantry, woodshed and man's room.

The third house had two storeys and a basement. The basement and ground floor plans are missing, but the second floor consisted of a landing, three bedrooms, box room, sleeping balcony and bathroom. The exterior was finished in roughcast, except for the basement and porches, which were faced with stone.
